

Second Harvest Food Bank's 2023 Sort-A-Rama Welcomes Jackrabbit Team

Jackrabbit's team of 12 walked through the doors of the Charlotte Convention Center the morning of September 27 ready to work for Second Harvest Food Bank for three hours.

Wearing Jackrabbit's volunteer t-shirts to make the team stand out from other teams, the volunteers got their instructions and began work along the 'line' the group was assigned.

From one end of the line to the other, team members made boxes, sent the boxes down the assembly line as each volunteer added their assigned food item, and passed it along, checked boxes for missing items, and securely taped up the boxes and stacked them on a pallet.

Jackrabbit has participated in Sort-A-Rama for several years, so experienced members of the group get to work as one of the event's most quickly and accurately working teams.

It's exciting to look across the convention hall floor and see hundreds of volunteers from Charlotte's businesses come together to prepare grocery items to provide to organizations on the front lines of helping the city's hungry.

The organizers have told Jackrabbit how much they love having the team as a sponsor each year!
